Dr Hendrik Heesen

Hendrik provides comprehensive advice on private construction and architectural law, as well as on intellectual property and IT law. A particular focus of his work lies in providing legal support for construction projects at the interface with the digital world – for example, in the use of innovative solutions in planning and construction, the drafting of relevant contracts, and the enforcement and defence against resulting claims. Thanks to his interdisciplinary approach, he provides clients with practical support in the implementation of complex and technology-driven construction projects
