Maximilian Pelc, LL.M.

Maximilian advises clients in private construction and architects' law as well as in real estate law. In the field of private construction law, he assists employers and contractors both in construction-accompanying project management and contract drafting as well as in contentious disputes before state courts and arbitral tribunals. His clients include building owners, construction companies, project developers, property developers, investors, real estate companies and banks.

He advises clients in German, Polish and English.
